

Ancestors of Elizabeth Marie Trinaistich

Introduction

Initial information on the ancestors of Elizabeth Marie Trinaistich (aside from a little that I knew about her parents) was obtained from Roberto Žigulić of Opatija, Croatia, in 2009 and 2010. Additional information was obtained in 2018 from Marija Puharić-Haraslić and Miljenko Ujčić of the Genealogy Center of Kastav and Liburnia (Rodoslovni centar Kastavštine i Liburnije).<sup>1</sup> The database of the Genealogy Center goes back much further than the research that Roberto did for me, so the majority of the information here is from them. The primary source of information, both for Roberto and for the Genealogy Center, is old Catholic Church records. The records were kept in Latin, and the names were written in a Latinized form rather than their native Croatian form. By my request, Roberto Žigulić provided information to me with names in Croatian rather than Latin. The database of the Genealogy Center, however, uses the Latinized names. I have attempted to convert the names I didn't have from Roberto to their Croatian forms, but have probably made mistakes in the process. The main issue with surnames is that I may be missing some of the proper accents. The problems are greater with given names. There are often several variants of a given name, and I don't necessarily know which would be most appropriate. I have opted, for example, to use Mate for Matthaus, Matthaues, and Mathias. Perhaps they should be different. Conversely, I have used Jure for Georgius, but there are several other names that might be used for it, and different individuals might have gone by different variants. Some names are still left in their Latin form because I wasn't sure what to use. In all cases, the Latin form, as provided by the Genealogy Center, can be found in the notes for each individual on my website.<sup>2</sup>

There are undoubtedly errors in the information presented here. In fact, I have noticed a few obvious errors in the data from the Genealogy Center – for example, children born after the death of the mother. Where I noticed such errors, I fixed them (by leaving out the death date of the mother for this example). There are likely still be other, less obvious, errors. Worse would be if an incorrect person is listed as a mother or father. In that case, all of the ancestors upstream from that person would be incorrect as well. This concern starts right at the beginning because Matt Trinaistich's death certificate lists his mother's name as Mary rather than Katarina or Katherine, and Elizabeth Dukić Trinaistich's death certificate lists her father's name as John rather than Mate or Matthew. I have seen copies of some of the Church records for them and I think their parents here are probably right, but I still have lingering concerns. Anyway, if the reader notices any errors, I would appreciate it if you would let me know about them.

Finally, if a surname is hyphenated, the part after the hyphen is called the nadimak and is sort of like a clan name. Roberto Žigulić explained it like this: a name like Jardas-Garić might mean a surname Jardas in the settlement Garići. It was especially used when the man Jardas married a woman with surname Garić and became a son-in-law in his wife's family.

Note: In this type of listing, the parents of person  $n$  are persons  $2n$  and  $2n+1$ . For example, the parents of person 1 are persons 2 and 3, and the parents of person 50 are persons 100 and 101.
